Q. II Read the following passage carefully and do the activity based on it.

Do you know, the fabric was not made in a day. Many people have toiled to make it. The farmer who grew cotton in his field worked hard for months through sun and rain. He picked cotton from each boll and gave it for spinning. Then someone else carded the cotton and spun it into long, uniform threads. The threads were dyed carefully so that they took on those lovely colours. My wife and I wove the threads together, putting in beautiful designs. We thought, some day, some one will like this fabric, will be happy to wear it. Then all our work would have been rewarded. When you destroyed the fabric you destroyed all the love and labour that went into its making. Money cannot bring it back.
