Passage

Ahmad was summoned to the court. The Qazi heard his argument patiently.

“Hmm, I see that you are right. What you have sold is the well, the water is all yours. Isn't that so?”

Kasim's heart sank, when he heard the Qazi's words. Ahmad in his heart of heart was overjoyed. He had never thought the Qazi would side with him.

“My Lord I am so grateful you understand the fine points of this case. The water does indeed belong to me.”

“In that case, Ahmad, why are you keeping it in Kasim's well? You have no right to keep your belongings in his property. You must remove them immediately. Or else, you can pay a daily rent to Kasim. Then he will allow you to use his well.”

Ahmad was so confused that he did not know what to say. All the people present in the court began to laugh.

But Kasim was a generous man. He never troubled Ahmad for the 'rent' that was due from him.

Trees

Trees are the kindest things I know,
They do no harm, they simply grow
And spread a shade for sleepy cows,
And gather birds among the boughs
They are the first when the day's
Begun to touch the beams of morning sun,
They are the last to hold the light.
When evening changes into night
And when the moon floats on the sky
They hum a drowsy lullaby
Of sleepy children long ago
Trees are the kindest things I know.
